

David Joo – Investor + Mentor

BIOGRAPHY

David Joo is an investor, mentor and advisor to companies across the globe focused on products and services that aim to positively impact society.

Previously, he was a Co-Founder and Co-CEO of Knowre, an education technology company with offices in Seattle, New York and Seoul. Founded in 2012, Knowre’s technology identifies why students answer questions incorrectly, and then uses AI/ML to create a personalized curriculum unique to each individual learner. After raising funding via Series A, B and B-1 rounds, Knowre was sold in 2018.

Prior to co-founding Knowre, David worked across a variety of investment banking roles, including capital markets, leveraged finance and M&A, along with public markets investing via distressed debt and capital structure arbitrage strategies.
